

GamePlan

Leadership Birds

Overview:

Topic Area: Leadership

Length: 30min - 1hr

Deliverables: Leadership Style

Players: 10-30

Instructions

Set Up:

1. Post an image of a Leadership Bird in each corner of the room.
 - a. Parrot- Community oriented
 - b. Humming Bird- Action oriented
 - c. Hawk- Vision oriented
 - d. Weaver-bird- Detail oriented
2. Explain each Leadership Bird and the leadership style it represents.
3. Talk about how they aren't mutually exclusive, and how we each have the capacity for all of them in us.

Gameplay:

1. Break out 1: Have people go to the one they most identify with and discuss what it is like to be that type of a leader with a couple folks there.
2. Break out 2: Have people go to the one they least identify with and discuss what it is like to struggle with that type of leadership style with people there.
3. As a whole group discuss what happened in the break outs.
 - a. What did people notice about the distribution of leadership styles in the room?
 - b. What is the relationship between different leadership styles and the effectiveness of your team?

Game Board

Birds can be drawn or sketched to the best of your ability, or you can ask an artistic friend to pre-draw them for you if you like.

Be sure to label each bird with its leadership style!

Notes

Leadership Bird Styles:

Parrot: Community oriented leaders care about how people feel and the inclusivity of the group.

Humming Bird: Action oriented leaders are always on the go and masters of getting things done.

Hawk: Vision oriented leaders can see the big picture and zoom in on how things fit together.

Weaver-bird: Detail oriented leaders take things apart to see all of its pieces and thrive as planners.

Bonus: Map out the leadership styles on your team using a grid set up like the picture above. Let people place a dot anywhere on the grid and ask for an explanation for each.

Learn more about GamePlans and other NICE Consulting support at theniceconsulting.org